Storms Hit Wide Areas In Midwest

East Swelters In Record Heat Wave, No Relief Sighted

By The Associated Press

Fresh storms threatened areas of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota today.

The clash of cooler air with a humid blast lunging its way from the torrid Southwest spawned torrential storms yesterday.

The Weather Bureau said new storms were brewing for north-west and extreme western Iowa, southeast and extreme eastern Nebraska, parts of southern Minnesota and parts of central Kansas.

Philadelphia Has 100

By contrast, in a vast section of the nation there wasn't enough wind to blow out a match. From Texas to southern Maine the nation was in a stew. Temperatures were in the 90s in many places. Philadelphia got a record for a June 16 when the temperature soared to 100.

This swelter belt extended from Texas, north along a line to Missouri and across the southern Great Lakes area to Maine, and all through the South and Southwest.

High temperatures for the year were reported by many stations. New York and Chicago both had 98s.

"This heat wave is due to continue to at least Tuesday night," the forecaster in Chicago said.

Residents in the flood-stricken St. Louis area were moving back into muddy homes after two days of torrential rains during which 19 persons died and property damage was estimated at several million dollars.

Floodwaters five feet deep swept through the central Kansas town of Ellis early today after a 4½-inch deluge hit the Big Creek watershed. City officials appealed for boats from surrounding towns to help evacuate residents. Drinking water and electricity were cut off.

The western Minnesota community of Marshall caught the first gust of a flood late last night as the rain-swollen Redwood River burst a dike.

Some 75 families evacuated. Some 75 families were evacuated at Yankton, S.D., on the Nebraska border, where the Marne Creek ran over its banks.

The Big Sioux River was reported rising at the rate of an inch every 15 minutes. It was reported over flood crest at Dell Rapids, S.D.

Small twisters touched ground and caused minor damage at Dunnell, Minn., Yankton, S.D., and Downs, Kan.

Continuing rain threatened new areas of Nebraska as floodwaters receded at Superior, Red Cloud and Platt Center. The Big Blue River, surging over banks from Lincoln to west and north of Seaward, was expected to crest today at two feet above the flood stage of 17½ feet.

Guard Arrested In Attempt To Smuggle Pistol

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—A State Penitentiary guard held on an alleged attempt to smuggle a .38 caliber revolver to five "dangerous" prisoners faced hearing before Magistrate Chester A. Burks today.

Warden E. H. Tucker said he and the Marshall County Sheriff took 56-year-old Vernal Thompson into custody at gunpoint yesterday as he left the home of a Benwood woman with the revolver and five shells in a paper sack.

Boy, Ten, Terrorizes Town With 'Wild West' Gunfire

CANONSBURG, Pa. (AP)—Residents of the small mining community of Muse will long remember Father's Day, 1957 and 10-year-old Joe Coleman. He shot up the town for two hours and pinned his dad behind a utility pole with gunfire.

Armed with two pistols and an undetermined quantity of cartridges, Joey terrorized the small Washington County community by shooting at anyone who moved before he finally was captured by a trick.

No one was wounded. "Joey kept running back and forth, taking a pot shot at anyone he saw moving," said William

Tornado Hits Italian Area, Eight Perish

PAVIA, Italy (AP)—North Italy today counted at least 14 dead in a rare one-two weather punch of floods and tornado.

The tornado, unusual in this part of Europe, killed eight persons yesterday as it ripped through the villages of Cignola and Robecco Pavese. Another 60 were hospitalized.

Four persons were drowned in week-old floods of the Po, Centesima, Dora and Stura rivers rampaging over a large part of northern Italy. Two others died in the flood waters last week.

Flood damage so far was estimated at 30 million dollars.

The twister flattened farm buildings and stone cottages in the two villages.

At Cignola an entire family—father, mother and three sons—were killed in the collapse of their home.

At neighboring Robecco Pavese some 200 of the 800 inhabitants were leaving church after a late Mass when the tornado approached.

Most rushed home but a few took refuge in the church cellar. The wind funnel struck the church head on minutes later, snapping the bell tower off. It crashed through the roof but hurt no one.

Villagers said the twister arrived a few minutes earlier, it would have caught the crowd at Mass.

One man was hurled 250 yards through the air. He was picked up critically injured.

Egyptian Paper Reports Hussein Divorced Queen

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The newspaper Al Ahram said today King Hussein of Jordan divorced Queen Dina last week.

Al Ahram, in a dispatch from Baghdad quoting an authoritative source in the Iraqi capital, said Hussein's decision to dissolve his marriage was communicated to Dina in Cairo, where she has been staying in her father's villa since September 1956.

The paper said Dina, after being informed of Hussein's decision, flew to Baghdad Saturday.

Warmer, Wet Weather Due

BALTIMORE (AP)—Five-day forecast: Somewhat cooler Tuesday and Wednesday, warmer Thursday, somewhat cooler Friday or Saturday. Scattered thundershowers Tuesday through Friday. Temperatures will average about five degrees above normal. Rainfall will average light, but amounts may be locally quite heavy due to the nature of thunderstorm rainfall.

Two Women Assaulted In Indian Town

NEW DELHI (AP)—Doctors today said the condition of two American women attacked by Indian villagers was "fairly good."

Both Miss Alice McKinney, 41, of Berkeley, Calif., and Miss Dorothy Barbee, 42, of Jackson, Tenn., were reported to have passed a restful night in a New Delhi hospital.

However, an embassy doctor refused to let newsmen interview or photograph them.

The two women are employed as home economics advisers by the U.S. technical cooperation mission, which gives material assistance and technical counsel to Indian development projects.

Traveling last Friday by car from Rajkot to Ahmedabad, in western India, they were beaten by villagers who mistook them for child kidnappers who have been harassing the region. They had stopped to inquire road directions.

Miss McKinney suffered a broken left wrist, a broken finger on the left hand and cuts on the left arm. Miss Barbee sustained a fractured rib and bruises to her upper body.

Turkey Hard Hit By Flash Floods

ISTANBUL (AP)—Torrential rains and flash floods hit large areas of Turkey over the weekend, causing loss of life and extensive property damage and disrupting rail traffic.

Press reports said three persons drowned and eight were missing at Aksehir, and another person drowned in Eskisehir province, midway between Istanbul and Ankara.

Civil Rights Bill Passage Set In House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House meets today to pass President Eisenhower's civil rights bill and send it into a new battle against bitter-end Southern opposition in the Senate.

After Friday's 199-167 vote defeating the key Southern effort to modify the bill, there appeared no doubt the House will pass the measure. The House has agreed to shut off debate not later than 6 p.m.

A bipartisan group, reportedly including the top Republican leadership, was waiting in the Senate to try, probably tomorrow, to maneuver the House measure around the Southern-led Judiciary Committee, which has kept a similar bill bottled up.

And waiting to fight the progress of the legislation at every stage were outnumbered but determined Southern senators armed with a filibuster weapon which in the past has killed civil rights bills.

The Southerners in the House lost their battle Friday when they were unable to muster enough Republican support to write a jury trial amendment into the heart of the bill. This is the section which would allow the U.S. attorney general to go into federal court for injunctions to block violations or attempted violations of voting and other civil rights.

The Southerners wanted to make it mandatory that anyone accused of violating such injunctions be guaranteed trial by a local jury.

Express Rate Hike Granted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) today authorized the Railway Express Agency to further increase rates on most small-quantity express shipments in the East by 11 per cent.

ICC said it acted to help Eastern railroads ease passenger service deficits. Express business is considered part of passenger service.

The increases may be made effective on 15 days' notice to the public. Specifically exempted are fresh fish, other seafood, flowers and watercraft, on which there is sharp competition between eastern and southern producers.

Seven Koreans Drown

SEOUL (AP)—A ferry overloaded with 82 persons sank off the southwest tip of Korea today. Seven persons were drowned and two are missing.

Patrolman who arrested her last month on a charge of reckless driving.

At that point, two other patrolmen radioed in to report a safe cracking. With Miss Masters' permission, Knoll acknowledged the call but gave out a code signal calling the patrolman back into the station immediately.

The petite brunette, dressed in blue jeans and a sports shirt, continued demanding that he call Young.

Patrolman Anthony Deta entered the station and was confronted by the shotgun. Knoll, who knew the girl as a crack shot skilled at deer hunting, suggested that Deta drop his holster, which he did.

Meanwhile, Patrolman Clarence Friedland, looking in from the porch and realizing that the station was under attack, rushed in. While he distracted Miss Masters momentarily, Knoll grabbed the gun.

Police said the girl was no stranger to violence at the station.

Jordan Set To Shut Her Cairo Embassy

Egyptian Aid Seen Stopped In New Rift

Arab Unity Suffers Setback As Strained Relations Widening

AMMAN (AP)—Jordan's strained relations with Egypt widened further today as she moved to close her embassy in Cairo.

The latest move in the mounting feud between Jordan and the Egyptian-Syrian alliance threatened to dissolve what little remains of the Arab unity proclaimed in Cairo four months ago by Egyptian President Nasser, Syrian President Shukri Kuwathly and King Hussein of Jordan and Saud of Saudi Arabia.

Announcing yesterday that the embassy was being closed, Jordan Foreign Minister Samir Rifai asserted this did not mean breaking "political relations" with Nasser's government. But he acknowledged that all employees were being recalled.

Retaliation Possible

Egyptian officials in Cairo would not say whether Egypt would retaliate by closing her embassy in Amman. It was considered significant Egypt's new envoy to Amman has not taken up his post as scheduled a month ago.

The controlled Egyptian press made plain, however, King Hussein's rift with Nasser would cost him Egypt's share of the annual 36-million-dollar Arab subsidy promised him when Jordan broke her defense pact with Britain.

Syria already has made known she is reneging on her share of the deal. Only King Saud of Saudi Arabia has stood by the agreement. Saudi Arabia and Egypt each promised to pay Jordan 14 million dollars. Syria agreed to pay eight million.

Informed quarters predicted oil-rich, pro-Western Iraq will grant Jordan aid to compensate for Syria's share. The United States already has paid Hussein half the 10 million dollars it promised him after he ousted leftist, pro-Egyptian leaders from his government in the spring.

Chilled Last April

Jordan's relations with Egypt chilled last April when Hussein cleaned his political house and made veiled charges that Egypt and Syria were plotting against his throne.

The situation reached a critical point last week when Jordan accused Egypt's military attaché in Amman of conspiring to assassinate members of the royal family and government. Egypt said the whole thing was fabricated.

Rifai told newsmen the embassy closing was "necessitated by the awkward Egyptian measure" of mapping the recall of Jordan's envoy and could be considered a protest against Egyptian behavior.

The decision to close the embassy was reached at a special Cabinet session presided over by Hussein.

Slayer Indicted In Shooting Of 'Voice' Employee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edith Louise Hough, 41, was indicted today on a first-degree murder charge for slaying her former fiancé, Russian-born Zurab Abusheli, a Voice of America translator.

Abusheli, 44, was shot six times with a .25 caliber pistol while in Miss Hough's apartment on Memorial Day.

The shooting occurred less than three weeks after Abusheli married another woman.

Court Frees Red Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today threw out the conviction of five Communist party leaders on charges of plotting to teach violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

In the same decision the high court ordered new trials for nine other California Communist party officials who had been convicted on the same charges.

The ruling turned the five completely free.

Justice Harlan delivered the court's majority decision, in which Justices Brennan and Whitaker took no part.

Justice Clark dissented outright.

This time she was locked in the county jail with a 24-hour lookout posted outside her cell. As they locked her up, police reported Miss Masters told them: "If they send me up for this, I'll come back and get you. . . I hate all cops."

West Powers Scan Proposal By Soviet

LONDON (AP)—Western delegates met behind closed doors today to coordinate their reaction to the Soviet Union's surprise proposal for an internationally controlled ending of nuclear weapon tests.

For the first time, the Russian plan included Kremlin acceptance of scientific international inspection teams on Soviet territory as well as on the territory of the United States, Britain and the Pacific.

Observers felt that the proposal, regardless of the sincerity with which it was put forward, gave the Russians at least a temporary propaganda advantage in the involved five-power U.N. disarmament talks in London.

Pressure mounted on Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to push for a complete exploration—if not outright acceptance—of the Soviet plan.

The Western delegates got together in advance of a disarmament sub-committee session later in the day. The subcommittee is made up of representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union.

The new Soviet proposal clearly was making an impact on British political opinion. Britain's opposition Labor party intensified its campaign to get the tests ended. Newspapers of various political views cautiously suggested that the time was approaching for the British government to make a new move.

In a weekend speech at a political rally in Newcastle, Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell—who would be prime minister in a Socialist government—urged the West to call the Russians' hand.

"Some may say that the Russians are not to be trusted and don't really mean it," Gaitskell declared, "but surely the right course then is to test the Russians, not the bombs."

Atomic Energy Charter Ratified By Assembly

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's National Assembly today unanimously ratified the charter of the International Atomic Energy Agency. It also recommended setting up a Korean national institute for the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

Justice Harlan delivered the court's majority decision, in which Justices Brennan and Whitaker took no part.

Justice Clark dissented outright.

This time she was locked in the county jail with a 24-hour lookout posted outside her cell. As they locked her up, police reported Miss Masters told them: "If they send me up for this, I'll come back and get you. . . I hate all cops."

Junta Takes Control And Issues Pleas

Death Toll Rises, Scores Injured In Weekend Fighting

By LARRY ALLEN

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Violent rainstorms lashed Port au Prince today, washing out threatened new political violence for the time being. At least 50 persons perished and 200 were hurt in weekend rioting.

The ruling military junta broadcast continuous appeals to businesses to operate normally, and warned that it had power to force operation of essential services and maintenance of food supply lines. The general strike has been a potent political force here in the last six months.

Death Toll Seen Rising

With scores in critical condition, the death toll from Saturday night's carnage may reach well over 100. Angry mobs went on an orgy of looting, burning and stoning in protest at the army's ouster of their idol. Provisional President Daniel Fignole. Troops stopped it with submachinegun fire.

About 1,000 Haitians were imprisoned.

The workers from Port au Prince's slums threatened another burst of violence last night. But a cloudburst lashed this unhappy Negro republic in the afternoon, turning the capital's muddy streets into swirling streams two to three feet deep.

The capital's workers and peasants in the countryside threatened to stage a general strike today, the weapon they have used to get rid of others of the five provisional governments which preceded the present military junta over a six-month period.

Troops guarded all embassies and legations. U.S. Ambassador Gerald Drew said he was in constant touch with the army.

"There has been no indication of antiforeign or anti-American sentiment," Drew declared, "and there is no need to evacuate Americans."

"There appeared nothing ahead but trouble for the crisis-ridden republic, with its illiterate, poverty-stricken, hungry masses being manipulated by power-seeking politicians, all feuding among themselves."

Fignole, a 43-year-old labor leader and professor of mathematics, reached New York Saturday night with his wife after being bundled aboard a plane by the junta. But his supporters here refused to believe assurances that he was alive and well. Saturday night's violence was touched off by persistent rumors that Fignole had been executed.

Mobs Fire Buildings

The mobs set fire to eight buildings. They stoned the Oloffson Hotel, where some North American tourists were staying. No Americans were injured.

Groups of workers stood atop buildings in the slum quarter, hurling stones on police and army patrols. Troops and police retaliated with sprays of machinegun fire.

Turnpike Trial Seen Prolonged

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike trial entered its third week today with attorneys for both sides convinced the court proceedings will drag into at least late July.

Dep. Atty. Gen. Vincent G. Panati issued the prediction for a long trial when he cautioned that it could continue into the winter months.

"The way it's going now it could last six months," Panati told newsmen.

Girard Ruling Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy may decide today on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to return GI William Girard to the U.S.

Frank Tavener, counsel for the House Un-American Activities Committee which opens hearings in San Francisco tomorrow, said that Sherwood had been subpoenaed. He refused to give the reasons for calling Sherwood before talking with committee members, who haven't yet arrived from Washington.

Found in Sherwood's home was a letter saying: "My life and my livelihood are now threatened by the House committee. I will be in two days assassinated by publicity. I would love to spend the next few years in laboratories and I would hate to spend them in jail."

Justice Harlan delivered the court's majority decision, in which Justices Brennan and Whitaker took no part.

Justice Clark dissented outright.

Scientist Takes Own Life To Avoid Red Hunt Probe

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—A Stanford University research scientist who was scheduled to appear before a House committee probing Communist "intellectual infiltration" was found dying yesterday in his laboratory.

Deputy Coroner Christopher H. Hill Jr. said it was "probably" suicide.

Hill said William K. Sherwood, 41, was found in his Hopkins marine laboratory at nearby Pacific Grove by his wife, Barbara. He was rushed to a Monterey hospital where he died an hour later. Hospital officials said he died of a dose of a chemical.

Justice Harlan delivered the court's majority decision, in which Justices Brennan and Whitaker took no part.

Keating Opposes Efforts To Put Curbs On Baseball

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-N.Y.) said today Congress would create "chaos in the sporting world" by blanketing baseball and other professional sports under federal antitrust laws.

"The biggest loser of all," Keating said, "will be the general public."

At the same time, Rep. Byrnes (R-Wis.) called on Congress to "save professional football from extinction" by exempting its play from antitrust laws.

Both congressmen made their statements in testimony prepared for the start of hearings on bills to clarify the position of professional sports under laws regulating big business.

A House antitrust subcommittee also planned to hear from Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, head of the Justice Department's antitrust division, and Earl Kintner, general counsel of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

Harris said yesterday he intended to go "all out for my bill" to exempt team sports from antitrust statutes.

In Port au Prince, police and troops fired on demonstrators in the slum quarter near the docks while crowds of people huddled together inside totally dark ramshackle huts, wailing and crying.

The weird sounds in the teeming slum were like the cries at voodoo rites in the jungle.

With him in a second Skyraider, was Lt. David Bertsch of Canton, Ohio. Bertsch reported that he was flying about 1,000 feet behind Kampmiller's plane when "unaccountably and with no prior warning" it went into a tight, climbing turn, inverted and went into the water. It crashed about two miles off this lakeshore village in about 15 feet of water.

The dead pilot was identified as Lt. Robert Kampmiller, 35, of Uniontown, Pa.

A two-man team of skindivers working with the Coast Guard reported finding the wreckage with Kampmiller's body inside last night. But efforts to recover the body failed and work was suspended until the morning.

Kampmiller was on a routine training flight in a single-engine AD Skyraider attack bomber based at Akron, Ohio.

Russian Trick Possible

Some Britons Say Crabb Body Was Not Recovered

LONDON (AP)—Some Britons think the headless, handless body found on Britain's south coast and believed to be that of missing frogman Cmdr. Lionel (Buster) Crabb may be a Russian imitation of a British wartime trick.

Both the Laborite Reynolds News and a reader's letter to the editor of the independent Sunday Express took exception to the general belief that the body found June 9 is that of the frogman, last seen skin diving in Portsmouth Harbor near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze 11 months before.

The Reynolds News said British security agents, because of reports they have from behind the Iron Curtain, believe Crabb is still alive and in Russian hands.

The paper called attention to the presence in the English Channel of three Russian submarines three days before the body was washed up at Chichester, 100 miles from Portsmouth. The submarines since have entered the Mediterranean en route to Egypt.

There has been no announcement that the body has been identified as Crabb's. The Reynolds News said it showed no signs of being hammer-headed, which Crabb was.

Hearing Set For Suspect In Robbery

BALTIMORE (AP)—A preliminary hearing is scheduled June 25—a week from tomorrow—for a 47-year-old transient charged with staging a second bank holdup because he was "rolled" for the loot of the first.

Held in $100,000 bail is James DeMichaelis, a native of Bowden, Ga., who was arrested Friday within an hour of the $8,480 robbery of the Westport Branch of the Union Trust Co.

FBI agents quoted DeMichaelis that he also held up the same bank and took $12,828 May 31. Agents said DeMichaelis told them he was "rolled" when he hid out in a hobo jungle after the first robbery, then decided to rob the same bank again to recoup his losses.

Police said DeMichaelis had more than $5,000 in a paper bag and about $2,000 in his pockets when arrested in a wooded area near the bank.

The same tactics were used in both holdups of the branch bank. The same woman employee who fainted May 31 also fainted Friday.

Japanese Premier Heading For U. S. To Talk With Ike

HONOLULU (AP)—Prime Minister Kishi of Japan said on his arrival at Honolulu en route to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower that his object is "to further strengthen the bonds of friendship, understanding and co-operation" between Japan and the United States.

Kishi said that in his talks with the President and other government leaders he hopes "to firmly establish our relations on a basis of mutual trust and confidence."

When his plane arrived, Kishi was the first of the craft after Hisaji Hattori, Japanese consul at Honolulu, boarded to greet him.

He was escorted down a red carpet to waiting officials amid popping flashbulbs.

He flies to San Francisco later today.

The Bald Boy—II Ever See A Mink With A Bald Spot

By ELMER WHEELER

Raising fur-bearing animals is big business.

So is raising hair on a baldy. Why, then, shouldn't a study of how raisers breed animals for thick pelts be of value to a guy losing his head pelt?

I read up on the subject. It seems fur raisers specialists long ago discovered that proper feeding of the animal puts thicker and finer hair on it, and it brings more money on the market.

A real good mink brings some $35,000. I'd perhaps get 10 cents for my head pelt at the dime store. Davey Crockett fur pieces get $1.50.

I didn't even get a glance from an Oklahoma Indian the time I went to Tulsa to speak for the sales club there. I was insulted.

Animals, I found out, are fed scientific food. I've seen chickens fed various colors that made the eggs repeat the colors of green, yellow, red.

So what goes in you — affects you.

Animals are fed clean, whole, some foods packed with wheat germs, rolled oats, ground apples. None are fed dried bread made entirely of unfortified white flour. Ask Peter J. Michael.

They are fed raw meat, fish, ground bone, tomatoes, carrots and milk. No wonder mink costs so much. They are fed well.

It seems the raisers don't cook foods. Too much loss in vitamins and minerals, they say.

It is a well-known fact that children in the South who ate overly cooked foods, while the servants' children got the "pot liquor," had more ailments than the servants' children who lapped up the vitamins and minerals cooked out of the foods the rich kids got.

I instructed my wife to cook faster. Use those fancy fast pressure cookers that kept the juices (the wizes of life) inside the foods so they'd get inside me.

I wasn't planning on selling my head pelt. Just to get it back if possible by proper inside nourishment, not outside rubbing.

One raiser told me that if he left out just one vitamin or mineral, the fur was abnormal.

So I made sure of getting a full daily round of vitamins and minerals by purchasing a food supplement that contained my cause the hair to be lacking in minimum requirement.

"A good mink brings $35,000. I'd get 10 cents for my head pelt."

I realized, of course, from the raisers' statements that nothing can replace nature's own food direct from the ground, but like a guy carries insurance, it was okay to insure yourself of not missing anything by eating supplements.

Heck, if I took such great care in buying my sheep dog his dog food, why not take as much care of my own foods?

Even a monkey gets scientific food fed to him at the zoo.

You never saw a bald-headed Eskimo, did you? He doesn't eat our highly refined foods.

On the other hand, look at the bald-headed Asiatics. They diet on polished rice. No Marine ever could grab one by the hair and pull him out of a foxhole.

A Dr. Weston Price found in his trip around the world to study tooth decay of various peoples, that natives with no tooth decay got holes in their teeth the year they strayed into a white man's settlement and began to consume his refined foods.

On analyzing the diet of these natives, the doctor found their foods were loaded with vitamins and minerals, often 10 times in excess of their daily needs.

Good hair men, I'm advised, look at your teeth and gums, and if their condition is bad, they know the same causes are affecting your hair and it needs immediate nutritional correction.

Circulation to the scalp, that tightly drawn skin, is needed and my doc told me, too, that bleeding gums and teeth can steal the blood from the head and

A Tribute To Fathers!

There's an old saying "mother knows best." Well, it seems to us that Father, bless him, should come in for some compliments, too, once in a while. It is true, of course, that upon mother's patient shoulders rests the upbringing of the children. And that is as it should be. But let's not forget that Pa is generally the family breadwinner and it is up to him to pay the bills. When day is done and he comes home, make things as cheery and loving as you can. Have a nice dinner ready. Lay out his slippers and his beloved pipe. Show him how much you love him by being kind and considerate. He may not tell you how he appreciates these attentions. But he will, as all good fathers do!

OUR COUNTRY

The union of hearts, the union of hands and the flag of our Union forever.—Morris.

An Ugly By-Product

BOTH EXPERTS and the statistics bear witness to the fact that the nation's crime problem today is largely a youth problem. It is the young who are booming crime percentages from year to year. Much sage comment on this disturbing phenomenon is offered by psychologists, sociologists and others. And there can be little doubt that a great deal of the analysis is utterly sound. American life, always fluid, has in many ways become a tumbling torrent. People not only move about at great pace from job to job and region to region. Within the bounds of a single locale, they may travel long stretches from home to job, and from home to places of recreation and similar activity. The motor car, the chief agent of this mobility, is at the same time a dissolver of social ties. It makes many a home not a fortress of social stability but a mere base of operations.

FURTHERMORE, today's family, whether on the move or at home, is bombarded as never before by a barrage of distractions—television being the most notable—which put more strain on old social patterns. Living standards have risen but so has dependence on the dollar to provide the great bulk of the family's goods and services. America's greatly swelling numbers have helped to step up the competition for that vital dollar. In the resulting hurly-burly, the family in many cases has lost nearly all its power as a kind of social cement, firmly joining people into compact, disciplined, manageable units encouraging order and stability. It is common these days for the scientists to wind up blaming the juvenile crime problem on the parents. Particularly do they like to ascribe an errant youngster's difficulties to a "broken home."

IN THE STRICT sense, the parents indeed must shoulder the responsibility, since it is obvious from the nature of much youthful behavior that discipline and love of a sort normally and wisely supplied by a family are sadly lacking. Certain it is too, that children of broken homes suffer an especial disadvantage. But the fundamental point would seem to be that the family—that is, the parents, no less than the youngsters themselves—is caught up in whirling economic and social forces it can hardly grapple with. Economic and social factors, for instance, have made America increasingly an urban nation. Yet a half-hour tour through any one of 20 or 30 top U.S. cities would reveal large areas as brick-and-mortar monstrosities unsuited to the raising of families. Youth crime is far from just a sign of parental failure, however large that looms as a direct cause. In truth it is a clear by-product of our whole way of life in mid-20th century.

CONSTRUCTION experts plan to apply stabilization treatment to the leaning tower of Pisa and thus end the danger of collapse. Now if the world's statesmen could just do something like that with the Temple of Peace.

Books That Live

THE SAGAMORE Press in New York City has begun issuing a most interesting group of books in paperback format. Called the American Century Series and under the general editorship of Louis M. Hacker, dean of general studies at Columbia University, this new library contains books which many Americans will want to read or to re-read. Among the titles are "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" by Edward Eggleston, "The Harbor" by Ernest Poole, "Sister Carrie" by Theodore Dreiser, "The Higher Learning in America" by Thorstein Veblen, Lincoln Steffens' "The Shame of the Cities" and William March's "Company K."

All of the books of the series have, in one way or another, stood the test of time. Taken as a whole they offer, in concentrated form, significant elements of the ideas and feelings which are part of the American cultural past. The Sagamore Press series is a fine publishing venture which will help us to assess and think about our own past.

For Real English Opinion Visit The Pubs

LONDON — On an American's last day in London — perhaps more than on his last day anywhere else abroad — he must arise early, stuff his lungs with oxygen, and prepare to race around the town in a frantic last lunge of activity.

The reasons are simple, really. First, there is the mercurial matter of exchanging your pounds for merchandise or dollars, because you are allowed to take no more than 10 English pounds (roughly $28.00) out of the country.

More important, England's charm sneaks into the innards of an American and, within an incredibly short time, the place begins to feel like "home" — with all a real home's plumbing, cooking, day-in day-out routine problems.

AFTER A BRIEF stay in beautiful Rome, exciting Paris, adventurous Cairo, an American is likely to say well wasn't that fun, but now it's time to go back where we understand what we read in the papers.

After a brief visit in England, one is likely to wire home for more money and stay on — for the parks are green, the monuments are magnificent, and the small boys playing cricket among the foxglove are worthy of more lazy attention.

You are in another world, away from personal problems, and yet you can read the papers, and the waiters understand you. It is hard to leave.

RECOMMENDED for the last day in London is an eavesdropping tour of the pubs (public houses) where Britishers say what they think.

There, in a variety of dialects — all of them intelligible once your ear is tuned in — you learn what the public feels about everything except Americans. (The British are too polite to talk about Americans when the latter are present, and Americans can always be spotted in a pub. Even in inexpensive clothes, they look sleek and flashy beside the more weathered and drab local citizen.)

AFTER ASKING a few questions, you get a nut-shell — or else a mug — picture of public opinion. And learn that:

Princess Margaret, if possible, an object of even more affection than Queen Elizabeth. At least temporarily.

Opinion is divided on whether or not she ever will be happily married now that Captain Peter

Townsend has been abandoned. But most pub people agree that as long as she devotes her time to "the chinless wonders" in her present social set, she is doomed to loneliness.

They refuse to believe that she will marry any of her current coterie of noble, or at least titled, hopefuls. There is a "that one wouldn't do for her" sort of attitude about the entire list.

THE RUMORED rift between Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip was, of course, an "outrageous" puff of nonsense enlarged by the American press. Everyone agrees that Buckingham Palace pulled a royal "fluff" when it dignified the "absurd" report with an official denial.

Philip is well liked by the people, though he makes some of them slightly uneasy.

"In a way, he's too democratic, the way he thinks things out and says what he thinks."

"He's rather like the Duke of Windsor was, that way. We rather like it when he says something vaguely risqué — that's fun and human — but when he gets serious, he comes dangerously close to talking politics. And Englishmen don't want the Royal Family mixed up in politics — they might get blemished."

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK—You have come in early for dinner at Arnold Moss' house, to which come Leon Janney and his lovely wife, Richard Horner and Pat Pearson, who are married; Richard Burton, the British stage director, and a squadron of others, including a Federal Reserve banker, with whom you do not discuss the state of the nation or the new mortgage austerity.

He does tell you that it is going to be a fine summer, which is as general and as vague a pronouncement as you could expect from a banker who does not wish to say anything quotable or twistable.

YOU AGREE that it probably will be and turn to Leon, who looses a quick, immaculate little joke about two Italian fishermen in the Mediterranean whose launch blows up and they are flung into the water.

Swimming for the distant shore, they suddenly see a periscope rise slowly out of the water in front of them.

"Thalss! U-boal!" one asks, alarmed.

"No, thalss nolla my boal," the other replies.

LEAVING Mr. Janney to his quips and gams, you sit down with a man you have not met and before long he is so deep in a discussion of the complexities and mysteries of modern cars that you realize he must be a motor manufacturer.

He turns out to be just that and you ask a hard question: Is one to deduce from the almost daily accidents reading "suddenly swerved out of control" that the new power steering is at fault and not yet a perfected device?

He says it is not. These sudden swerves or sudden loss of control are not traceable to power steering but to a more profound thing called loss of control due to strangeness with new powers, new forces and new guidance principles.

Some people, he says, forthrightly, have no business operating high-powered, automatically-controlled cars since they have neither the reflexes nor the caution essential.

So you say, "Should, then, the States impose new tests for new drivers based on these quickened talents?" And he says, "Look, we only make the cars, we don't make the rules."

EARLY IN THE morning, the midnight chimes long since having set the hour, you walk westward from Beckman Place with

Henry Denker, the playwright, and his bride, and Janney and spouse, and you talk about all manner of things about all manner of people, including how tough things once were for a current star named Tom Ewell.

It seems that Tom once was in Hollywood on short shift for money and meals and heard of a cowboy picture being made at Republic, or about to be made. He lugged out there and got in to see the casting man and asked for a job.

"Can you ride?" the casting asked.

"I'm from Kentucky," said Tom with bravura, an answer neither affirming or denying he could ride. "Of course," the man said. So he was told that he would go to work in nine days, positively.

Tom traipsed back into town, borrowed $10 and hired a horse and rode in Griffith Park, trying to master a fine, Western nonchalance in the saddle. In four days he felt able to ride well enough and then borrowed a pistol, holster and belt, to practice a fast draw while riding.

Loopin' along, once again in Griffith Park, Tom drew from the hip and fired into the air. The horse reared, threw Tom and Tom landed with his head on a stone, out cold. He was so battered he was in bed for three weeks and lost the job.

ANOTHER Ewell story was that he was on a wartime South Pacific atoll with a bunch of Seabees waiting for a supply ship and they were asking him if the movies and theatre were not infested with a bunch of slightly butterfly young gents. Tom said, no, he'd never encountered any and if he had he would have disdained associating with them.

In a few hours a supply ship came in and the first person down the gangplank was an extremely butterfly lad from 44th Street who rushed up shrieking: "Why, TOMMY EWELL! Isn't this war a SCREAM?" Whereupon and immediately Ewell lost much caste with the tough Seabees and it took him six weeks to get on a friendly basis with them again.

HAVING reached this far, which was Fifth Avenue, you pick up your car and start for Long Island, Janney gets into his station wagon and starts for New Jersey, and Denker, a city feller, starts for Central Park South. Driving along in the early morning you think of Ewell and how it took him—literally years—to achieve recognition and become a star.

Nice For Lazy Gardeners

M'LEAN, Va. — My question, professor, is what good's a cabbage plant that grows 12 feet tall and goes to seed without ever producing a cabbage?

Old Farmer Othman, I mean to say, is not yet impressed by the wonders of gibberellin. This is the fungus originally dug up from a Japanese rice swamp and now is the sensational best-seller in garden supply stores across the land.

It's supposed to turn bushes into trees, make two tomatoes grow where only one grew before, and cause a stalk of celery to sprout while you're blinking your eyes.

The pure stuff now being produced by several American drug houses costs $5,000 a pound, but one gram diluted in a couple or three million parts of water is said to be enough to send an acre of growing things skyward.

THIS gibberellin was discovered in Japan soon after the war when a scientist there noticed that a field of rice was shooting up twice too far and falling over dead. He started digging and came up with the fungus that did it.

Since 1951 our own boys have been experimenting. They admit they don't know too much about it yet, and if you sprinkle some on your petunias and they make blossoms the size of washtubs, the experts will be interested.

WHAT'S bothering me is the fear that my own beaten-up acres here in Fairfax County are infested with natural, Virginia-style gibberellin. Consider, for instance, my guaranteed dwarf apple and pear trees. Some of these already are nearly 20 feet tall.

The catalogue said 10 feet would be their maximum height. Mine still are growing, they're covered with fruit, and I'm danged if I know how I'll ever pluck the top pears.

The trees still are too spindly to support a ladder. My grass is growing far faster than ever before; I don't know whether this is because of gibberellin under the surface, or fertilizer (colored pink, like face powder) sprinkled on by Mrs. O. My lawn needs mowing now every three days. So it manages mostly to stay shaggy.

I'VE ALWAYS hoped the scientists would produce a fluid to keep plants from growing at all. Let 'em grow naturally to the ideal height, is my theory, and then sprinkle No-Grow on 'em. I'll bet this would sell better even than gibberellin.

The current agricultural whoop-la, with articles in all the farm papers about gibberellin and pieces in the scientific journals concerning experiments with it, reminds me of puffum. Remember that, fellow suburbanites?

There were a dozen different brands of this wonder-worker. It was a chemical that came in a can. Sprinkle a little on the soil, no matter how hard and full of clay, the directions said, and immediately get the finest lawn.

THIS WAS bailed as the end to the garden spade and hoe. Or why yolk humor into the soil when it was so much easier to slash it on from a bucket?

This product sold in many different brands for around $5 a can, which made it a little expensive for any large acreage. Then the price started coming down. The Federal Trade Commission went after a couple of highbinders who sold imitation soil softener as the genuine article.

The other day I saw in a garden store a can of the genuine article, looking badly shopped, and marked down from $3.95 to 49 cents. No takers, either.

"Pay-Or Else"

FOR A WELL brought-up gentleman, Uncle Sam can be very rude at times. This must have struck the people who have been dunned in this fashion for short payments on their income tax.

"Your account will be placed in the hands of the internal revenue collection officer without further notice. Under the law he may levy on your wages, salary or other income, or seize or sell your property or rights to property to collect the amount."

This is language that might come from a hard-boiled collection agency which had made fruitless efforts to collect a sum long overdue. It is sent to all citizens who have not paid the full amount. This includes cases where taxpayers filed amended statements because of circumstances that made them feel that they owed an additional amount. This action showed their good faith, yet the above was the reply they got.

A small-town editor, E. C. Jefferson, of the semi-weekly Lampson, Ohio, Gazette, got such a communication because of $9 the government said he owed. Being a man of spirit, he did not take calmly such language from a man he had helped to hire. He took it up with his senator, who talked with the Treasury Department.

Lampson has now received a letter that says in part, "We are agreed that the language should be revised, and the technical staff is now at work on the revision." One more tribute to the usefulness of the press, and to the public spirit of a citizen manly enough to resent abuse, even from an official.

Washington Scene

LONDON — The Right Honorable Henry Brooke, M.P., Minister of Housing and Local Government, presented such an appearance of well-bred decorum as he sat on a front row bench in the House of Commons, that it gave me a bit of a turn when he proved to be one of those insulting type comedians.

Her Majesty's Minister looked so unlike a practitioner of the old Milton Berle school that my attention wandered when it came his turn to be put to the question. Moreover, the first query seemed somewhat too local to recapitulate my interest.

The Rt. Hon. G. R. Chetwynd, member from the riding of Stockton-on-Tees, asked the cabinet officer whether he was aware that a noxious odor was pervading Stockton-on-Tees, and what he proposed to do about it. I didn't listen to Brooke's reply because I was watching late-arriving M.P.'s bow to the golden mace as if they were curtsying to the Queen.

THERE WAS a hearty British roar of laughter, however, so I asked the only journalist in the gallery within prodding distance what was so funny. He turned out to be a bearded Sikh.

"It was quite amusing," the Sikh said through his whiskers. "Mr. Brooke replied that nothing would please him more than to be known as the Minister who clears up smells, but that it is his understanding the odor at Stockton-on-Tees has abated without any action on his part."

This struck me as so mirth-provoking I tried not to miss another word. The Sikh pointed out that there was an individual loudspeaker at every seat in the press gallery and that if I bent my ear to the one in front of me I would be able to hear as distinctly as if I were down on the floor.

This proved to be so. The Hon. G. R. Chetwynd said that when he went home for the Whitsun holiday the smell was still there. The Housing Minister transferred the House of Commons into a den of laughing hyenas by retorting blandly:

"There was a bad smell when the honorable member was in his constituency, but it has since departed."

Winston Churchill's son-in-law, Minister of Defense Duncan Sandys, turned out to be a comic, too. Marcus Lipton, M. P. from Buxton, asked him if he was aware that soldiers in barracks were required to remove all pictures of the Royal Family from their lockers before inspection.

Sandys panicked the Commons by replying that soldiers might also display photos of one or two members of their own families—but that "they must, of course, remove their pin-ups."

MANY OF THE questions asked in the House made me homesick, they sounded so much like the twaddle on Capitol Hill. I was absolutely wracked with nostalgia when Arthur Lewis, M.P. from West Ham North, asked Prime Minister Harold Macmillan if something couldn't be done to alleviate the distress of members of the House of Lords.

The Prime Minister replied, sympathetically, that something should be done for the poor Lords. I asked the Sikh journalist about this, too, and he said the Lords had to pay their own way to London.

"They have to do it for buckshee," he added.

I assumed that "buckshee" was something in Hindustani, but later a reporter from Red China put me straight. "Buckshee" is pure cockney," he explained. It means "for nothing."

The Rev. R. W. Sorenson, M. P. from Leyton, asked the Rt. Hon. Sir David Eccles, K. C. V. O., President of the Board of Trade, what he proposed to do about umbrellas. Sir David replied that Her Majesty's Government was giving the matter considerable thought. I asked a journalist from Turkey about this, and he explained that the sale of British umbrellas has fallen off abroad since other countries broke the secret formula of how to make them.

You can learn an awful lot of things in England so long as you don't ask Englishmen.

Dulles Deflates Silly Trial Balloons

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the most useful functions of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' press conferences is to deflate screwball foreign policy trial balloons launched by other experts.

The secretary has developed a nice technique for handling these situations. He's diplomatic and polite.

Thus when a reporter asked about California Sen. William Knowland's latest flash to get the Russians out of Hungary in exchange for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization pull-out from Norway, Dulles didn't say it was a dumb fool idea.

"I share Senator Knowland's feeling that we should make every effort to get Soviet troops out of Hungary," Dulles said. "We should test the sincerity of what Khrushchev said."

DULLES NEXT went into a few paragraphs of background about the mutual security arrangements which the United States has made with 45 other civilized nations.

Then he let Knowland have it. "It is not proper that any one of these nations should be asked to withdraw from these arrangements," said Dulles. "It is not appropriate that any nation should be asked to withdraw."

Finis one beautiful theory. Later the senator issued a statement in which his views had been misinterpreted.

Similarly, Secretary Dulles put in proper perspective Texas Sen.

Lyndon Johnson's widely heralded New York speech.

In it, the Democratic majority leader had proposed what was acclaimed as a brand-new idea for exchange of radio and television time with the Russians.

DULLES WAS asked at his press conference what he thought about that. He commented that back in October 1955, at the Big Four Foreign Ministers meeting in Geneva, the idea for a monthly half-hour radio exchange time had been offered to the Russians.

They turned it down with Molotov's comment that the Russians didn't want any such "social scam." But the United States is still pressing for it, at every opportunity, says Dulles.

That punctured the Johnson balloon pretty effectively, but the secretary let it down gently, with more bluster.

He was glad to see the Johnson endorsement and adoption of this proposal, the secretary said. It was a strong expression on the effectiveness of our bipartisan foreign policy.

In recent weeks, Dulles has had to spend much of his press conference time trying to keep U. S. disarmament negotiations on the track.

INSPIRED largely by the ambition and optimism of ex-Gov. Harold Stassen, American delegate to the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee, there has been a series of fantastic predictions on what they were to accomplish.

"In allowing exaggerated hopes to be built up for acceptance of American disarmament proposals, it is now being freely mentioned that Governor Stassen may have performed his greatest disservice yet to the Eisenhower administration."

There has been no official reprimand of Governor Stassen. But his dreams of disarmament are pretty well demolished by the last Dulles press conference statements.

"We are not disposed to present as a U.S. program anything that involves our European allies without their unanimous approval," says Dulles. "We can't discard the views of our allies just to make speed in a bilateral deal with the Soviet."

That puts disarmament agreement prospects a long way off.

West Virginia Beer License Renewal Due

CHARLESTON — State Beer Commissioner Roy D. Platt has warned West Virginia beer retailers and wholesalers that they must have their new licenses "on the wall" by July 1 or they will be "out of business."

Platt said two extra clerks have been hired and that his office will be open six days a week from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. to handle an expected late rush for license renewals before the end of the fiscal year.

The commissioner said that at least two thirds of 6,631 retailers and wholesalers have not yet applied for their new 1957-58 license. "Beginning July 1 if there is no license displayed on the wall of a place where beer is sold, the wholesaler or retailer will be in violation of the law," Platt said. "And he will be out of business until a new license is posted."

Platt emphasized that there would be no extension of the July 1 deadline.

Beer handlers in the state and their annual license fee include: 3,985 retailers, $100 each; 1,012 package retailers such as groceries, $5; 408 clubs, $50; 127 distributors, $250; 96 public carriers such as passenger train dining cars, $10, and one brewery, Festschneider Brewing Company of Huntington $500.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Ella Fern Richardson, who passed away two years ago, June 16, 1955.

In our hearts we'd like to stray, Along the roads of yesterday, To hear her laugh and see her smile, And talk with her a little while, But we cannot bring the old days back, Her hand we can not touch, But God has given us sweet memories, Of the one we loved so much, Our minds go wandering when daylight fades.

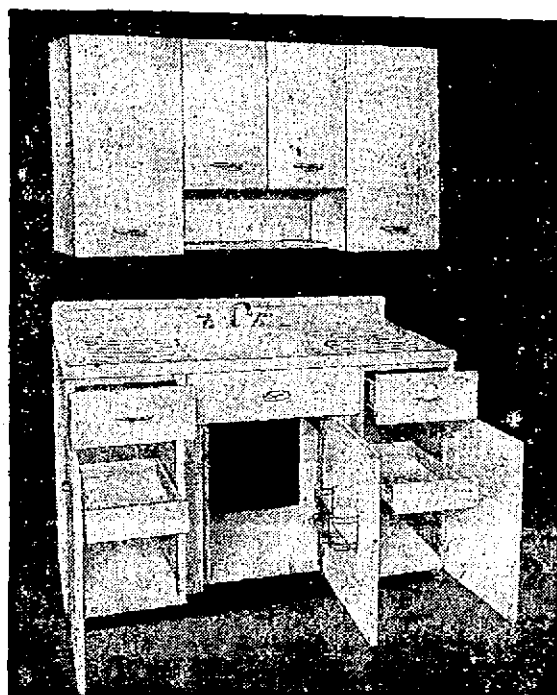

To the lands of yesterday, And memories point the scenes of old, In the gold of the twilight glow, We seem to see in the soft dim light, The face we loved the best, And we think of her when the sun's last rays go down in the G. Eden West.

And day by day, we miss her more, As we walk through life alone, A beautiful life came to an end, She lived as she died, everyone's friend. She is sadly missed by her family, Dad, Mother and Charlotte, Frank, Ida and Children, Daniel Folk, Jr.

Trailer Sites To Be Picked By City Group

Banning Ordinance Dropped As Council Plans New Steps

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission will be asked to designate sites within the city limits as "trailer court" areas under an ordinance proposed at today's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Council rejected unanimously an ordinance which would have prohibited the future use of trailers as dwellings within the city limits. This ordinance had been delayed one week by a negative vote cast last Monday by Mayor Roy W. Eves.

The change came about after several protests had been received by council from trailer owners and it had heard two proposals from local property owners who are interested in developing land they own as trailer sites. The men are Thomas L. Papp who told council about a West Side site he wants to develop and Charles Sullivan who has a similar site in South End.

Under the new ordinance which went to its third reading today and will be up for final passage next week, trailers would be banned in the city limits except for those areas designated as trailer courts by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Letter To Outline Plans

City Attorney Thomas R. Finan told James Alfred Avirett, chairman, that the city would send a letter to the commission outlining its plans.

Finan, in a pre-council session, reemphasized that there has been no great demand for trailers here and the ordinance would merely give the city authority over applications.

Casper A. Shook, 109 East Elder Street, said he has been interested in his area as a trailer site but had been told it is a residential area. He disputed the claim since, he added, there are a number of stores located there and a new one has just opened.

Have Sewage, Water Taps

Mrs. Richard Brant, 215 Roberts Street, who occupies a trailer and said her husband is in military service, told council she had contacted a number of trailer owners and all, including her trailer, are connected to city sewage and water facilities. There have been no complaints from neighbors, she continued.

In discussions over the ordinance, Finan told Mrs. Brant the ordinance will not affect trailers already in use except in residential areas designated under the city zoning law. He asked if Mrs. Brant had ever obtained an occupancy permit and she replied in the negative. She said she had applied for, paid for and received sewer and water permits.

Mrs. Brant also submitted a petition, signed by five, protesting any ban against trailers.

The vote to reject the outright ban on trailers was 4-0 since Finance Commissioner John J. Long is out of town and did not attend today's session.

Pastors Ask Youth Study

The Cumberland Ministerial Association today asked the Mayor and Council to appoint a "representative committee" to study problems of youth in Cumberland.

Council referred the request to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan for investigation and report.

Charles C. Cook, Mrs. Earl Judy and George F. Harrison appeared before council to protest the condition of an alley between Avirett Avenue and Beall Street. Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz said work on the alley has been scheduled and it will be completed as soon as possible.

A letter from John J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, urged council to renew its efforts in behalf of the C&O Canal Parkway. Mitchell said more opposition has developed and asked council to contact U. S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall on the matter again.

Buchholz said Mitchell's letter is worthy of consideration. He said the city should leave no stone unturned in its efforts favoring the parkway and added the people who oppose the parkway are "being selfish about it."

Buchholz's motion that Mayor Roy W. Eves send a telegram to Beall urging him to continue his support of efforts to have legislation approved, received unanimous vote of council.

Keegan told council that representatives of the Police and Firemen's Welfare Association will meet with city officials next Monday at 11 a. m. The association has requested consideration for a wage increase.

4-H Club To Meet

The North Branch 4-H Club will meet tomorrow at 7 p. m. at the Fire Hall there.

GIFT FOR DADDY—James C. Shaffer, RD 7, city, received a real Father's Day gift yesterday in the person of a new daughter. The mother, Mrs. Norma (Lowery) Shaffer, gave birth at 7:19 a. m. yesterday in Memorial Hospital. The Shaffers have another daughter, Rhonda Frene Shaffer, two years old. The student nurse is Miss Kitty Smith.

Throngs Seek Relief From Extreme Heat

The 92-degree temperature yesterday was the highest of the year and thousands thronged area streams in an effort to cool off.

A brief shower yesterday about 2:30 p. m. caused the temperature in downtown Cumberland to drop from an unofficial high of 94 degrees to 89 degrees.

Highway traffic was heavy with many persons traveling to and from recreation areas such as Deep Creek Lake, South Branch, Shawnee Park, Mink's and the Celanese swimming pools and Constitution Park.

The official low temperature overnight was 67 degrees and at noon it had risen to 85 degrees.

During the afternoon rainstorms a transformer at the Cumberland Fairgrounds was struck by lightning. The transformer is located on a pole across the race track from the grandstand. The Cresapton and Bowling Green volunteer fire companies answered the alarm.

A fire among some cross ties in the west yard of the B&O Railroad was extinguished by a crew from Central Fire Company and they also answered a call yesterday to 424 North Centre Street when the contents of a skillet caught fire in the kitchen.

Temperature readings from area communities were also in the 90's. Rockwood had 90 degrees, Confluence, 91; Connelville, 92; Oakland, 89 and Deal, 80 degrees.

The forecast calls for somewhat cooler weather tomorrow and Wednesday. Some thunder-showers are also listed as likely.

Trip Pads To Be Painted Yellow

Trip pads for the synchronized traffic lights along Henderson Avenue are to be painted yellow in order to speed up the flow of vehicles.

The lights were installed in connection with the safety gates at B&O Railroad crossings.

City officials said complaints had been received about traffic backing up on Valley Street and a similar situation at Knox Street.

The Reason? City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said motorists have been stopping short of the trip pads which change the lights.

City Fireworks Planned July 4

A city-sponsored fireworks display July 4 appears assured, according to Street Commissioner William H. Buchholz.

Buchholz said members of council have expressed their support of a display which will cost an estimated $600. The money, Buchholz said, will come from the Recreation Department appropriation.

The display has been held in former years at Constitution Park and is staged by Bert Caldara of Mt. Savage.

Livestock Specialist Visits County Arcus

Beef cattle breeders in Allegany County discussed some of their problems with Boyd Whittle, livestock specialist of the University of Maryland, when he visited here last week.

He was accompanied on a trip to the Oldtown and Murley's Branch areas by Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent.

Area Mishaps Claim Lives Two Women

Washington And Philippi Residents Accident Victim

Two women were killed in separate automobile accidents in the area over the weekend.

Victims of the crashes were Mrs. John Jarrell, 21, Washington, and Mrs. Orpha Watts, 60, Philippi, W. Va.

Mrs. Jarrell died shortly after the car in which she was riding collided with another car on U. S. Route 50, four miles west of Burlington, yesterday evening.

West Virginia State Trooper Charles C. Oliver, stationed at Keyser, said that the car in which Mrs. Jarrell was riding was traveling east on Route 50 and was being driven by her husband, John Jarrell, 19, a serviceman stationed in the Washington area.

Trooper Oliver said Jarrell's car apparently skidded on the wet highway and into the path of a westbound car being driven by Jack Kight of Oakland. The car skidded sideways, and the right side of the car in which Mrs. Jarrell was riding struck the front of Kight's car.

The dead woman, who formerly lived in Kentucky, was expecting her first child in about two months, the trooper reported.

Kight sustained a head laceration and Jarrell had minor bruises. Also slightly hurt was Jarrell's younger brother, William Jarrell, 14.

Trooper Oliver said Jarrell will be charged with negligent homicide, although no charge had been placed against him last night.

Mrs. Watts, who was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, John Hardie Watts, reportedly died of a broken neck. Her husband sustained a lacerated right arm and is being treated for shock at Broadbent Hospital at Philippi.

Trooper R. R. Karickhoff, who investigated, said the two cars met head-on on Route 92 near Kannon, W. Va.

Also surviving besides her husband are a son, Dorsey Watts, Florida, and two nieces, Mrs. Harry Poling, this city, and Mrs. William Harman, Ellerslie.

Suit Filed For $2,500

Suit for $2,500 damages was filed in Circuit Court today by Donald W. Durs and Emily Durs, his wife, against Lester McGill, Vocke Road, for alleged damage to their property from surface water.

The declaration, drafted by Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the Durs, states that they purchased a residence October 5, 1947 from N. J. Zeiler on Glen View Terrace in the Braddock Road section. They state they spent large sums of money landscaping the higher level of ground above their home and had a drainage ditch installed.

It is alleged that McGill bought the upper level property and removed trees and top soil and the ditch. As a result, it is claimed by the Durs, surface water has damaged their property.

Window Panes Broken At School

A rash of vandalism was reported on the West Side over the week end.

Det. Thomas See said this morning that 30 glass window panes and two glass blocks were smashed in the West Side School. Det. See estimated that value was $75 to $100.

Army Career Man Reports On Ethiopian Experiences

By PATRICK A. TIERNEY
Evening Times Staff Writer

A veteran Army career man, who has been "adopted" Cumberland as his home town, recently returned to this country for reassignment after serving for two and a half years in Ethiopia.

Master Sgt. John L. Leacock, a native of North Dakota, is married to the former Miss Virginia McFarland of Ridgeley and they and their family have been visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McFarland of Ridgeley, and other relatives in the area since their return to the states.

A communications expert, Sgt. Leacock had been stationed at Asmara in the Eritrea section of Ethiopia where the U. S. maintains a communications center. The majority of military personnel stationed there are in the Army, he explained, although there are a few Navy and Air Force members.

His major impression of Asmara was of how modern the city is. Approximately the size of Cumberland, Sgt. Leacock said, there are modern stores, theatres, restaurants and hotels in Asmara.

Despite its modern aspects, Asmara and Ethiopia in general, has many reminders of by-gone days. While stationed there, Sgt. Leacock and his family were quarantined in a home which was surrounded by a high wall—constructed to keep out thieves. Most of the walls, however, were built during the Italian occupation of Ethiopia prior to World War II. Gates in the walls no longer need be kept locked, the sergeant said.

His chief impression of Ethiopia is its mountainous terrain. Although Asmara's altitude is approximately 7,000 feet, the principal seaport is located only 70 miles away. The climate is cool and dry, except for the rainy season which runs from June to September. One of the major holidays observed is held at the end of the rainy season, Sgt. Leacock explained.

Food Spicy Hot
Ethiopian food is too spicy-hot for most American palates, the sergeant said. He also noted that Asmara is a farming region. Cattle, donkeys, goats and sheep also abound, and even the poorest of families have some such livestock. Vegetables are reasonable in price, Sgt. Leacock said, adding that other household articles are expensive since most are imported from European countries. The chief export of Ethiopia is coffee.

Another vivid impression Sgt. Leacock has carried back from the African country is of the many nationalities that have settled in Ethiopia. There are Italian, French, Scandinavian, English, Indian and Moslem families which have lived there for generations, he explained.

Sgt. Leacock came to Cumberland in 1927 when he drove home a native of this city who had been a housekeeper at his father's farm in North Dakota. He liked the area so much he decided to make the Queen City his home.

Has Varied Experience
He first enlisted in the Army in 1918, with the late Master Sgt. Clarence Rich, long-time local recruiter, being the man who "talked him into it." He served the "hitch" in Hawaii and was out only briefly when he re-enlisted for World War II service.

Following service in the European Theatre during the war, Sgt. Leacock was stationed in Hawaii before being sent to Okinawa during the Korean fighting. He was assigned to the Army communications center at LaPlata before going to Ethiopia and expects another assignment there when he reports back to duty July 5 at Fort Myer, Va. Council acted on an introductory ordinance and slated final action next week in connection with the closing of a portion of Schfund Avenue from the intersection with the easterly side of Frederick Street to the westerly side of Hoeswood Street.

Payments authorized include $9,568.63 to Meyer Brothers as partial estimate No. 27 for the sewage treatment plant; and $11,314.89 to George F. Hazelwood Company as estimate No. 18 for work at the Lake Gordon filter plant.

More Routine
Parking meter inspector Harry Whisner said collections the week of June 2 were $631.72 compared to $704.22 the week of June 9, an increase of $72.50.

Water consumption for the week ending yesterday was 79,100,000 gallons compared to 80,310,000 the same period a year ago. The water level at Lake Gordon is three inches above the crest of the spillway and at Lake Koon two inches above, according to a report submitted by C. L. Bratenmarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company.

Casper A. Shook, 109 East Elder Street, suggested that the traffic light at the corner of Virginia Avenue and Second Street be made to conform with operations of other lights in the city. This particular one, he said, has two walk signals to each one for traffic resulting in a slowdown in traffic flow.

Persons of Irish descent who wish to enroll in the AOH may contact any of the officers of the local group, according to Welsh. Guerin told the local group that the AOH was organized in America in 1936 and has since become one of the largest group of men of Irish lineage in the world.

Besides the officers of the local Division, others who have participated in reorganizing the AOH here are William C. Walsh, William E. McCleary and Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. Lawrence Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Tom McLuckie, who plays football with the tenacity of a tiger, very well could turn into a tiger cat before the year is over.

The husky, hustling grinder, named by the coaching staff of the University of Maryland as the Terps' greatest defensive player in 1956, is debating about his football future.

Tom is spending his summer months at Fort Jackson, S. C., thinking about what could be in store for him as a professional. He was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals of the National League after the '54 season, but leans toward the Canadian League in general and the Hamilton Tigercats in particular.

The Canadian season will be more than half over when McLuckie gets his discharge in October and there's a strong possibility he won't lackle the play-for-pay ranks until next year. Last fall, Tom played middle guard for Fort Jackson, runnerup to Bolling Air Field for the national service championship.

Tom, who was born in Cumberland and played his high school ball in Midland, Mich., where he was an All-State center, has never been injured during his rugged career. He received the usual bumps and bruises that go with the job of a football lineman, but was never hurt seriously enough to warrant being benched.

This is one of the things that he must consider as he ponders the pro question. He is fully aware that luck could run out on him, as it did in the case of John Alderton, another ex-Maryland great from Cumberland, who missed most of the 1956 Canadian League season after sustaining a leg injury. But still there is that burning question he'd like to answer to his own satisfaction: "Can I make good in pro ball?"

Anyone who has ever watched McLuckie play in college is convinced that "Tom has everything it takes for the professional side of the game. He tips the scales at 228 pounds, just about the same weight he carried in college, and has the desire and savvy so necessary for stardom.

Tom proved his mettle even before the 1954 season began. On July 28 he underwent an emergency appendectomy at Memorial Hospital, with the opening practice at College Park only a little more than a month away. Dr. Fuller Whitworth, who performed the operation, told the aggressive lineman that by following his post-operative instructions he still would be able to play.

Even before the end of August, Tom was pitching in the City Softball League play-offs with the Senate Rooters, a team he helped put in the title picture through his chugging and hitting. He reported to College Park the following week and didn't miss a single practice session.

The Terps went through the 1954 season without losing a single game, although bumped by national champion Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl the following New Year's Day. At the end of the campaign, Jim Tatum said he hadn't seen a better defensive lineman all year than McLuckie. "He makes more plays after he's knocked down than most linemen do on their feet," the Maryland mentor declared.

Washington's Pigskin Club also took cognizance of McLuckie's efforts by honoring him as the outstanding college player in the Washington area.

Blazing Cardinals Rising Faster Than Mercury

Take Second Place With Double Win Over Brooks

By TONY GALLI

NEW YORK (INS)—The National League pennant scramble is still as close as the New York weather, but rising even faster than the mercury is St. Louis. Freddie Hutchinson's rejuvenated Redbirds closed a highly successful Eastern invasion Sunday with a doubleheader sweep of the Brooklyn Dodgers which pushed them into second place.

It was the 11th victory in the last 14 games for the Cardinals and brought them to within a game and a half of the league-leading Milwaukee Braves. A crowd of 23,674 sweltering in the record 92-degree heat saw the Cards beat the Bums, 7 to 6 and 3 to 4, with Stan Musial getting five for nine, including home run No. 14. It was the eighth defeat in the last ten games of the Dodgers' home stand and dropped them into fifth place, three games off the pace.

Braves, Phils Divide Milwaukee protected its lead by whipping Philadelphia, 3 to 2, on Juan Pizarro's five-hitter before Lew Burdette lost a heart-breaker, a one-hitter, 1 to 0, in the second game.

New York tumbled Cincinnati into third place, 4 to 3 on Don Mueller's three-run pinch homer in the eighth inning and the Chicago Cubs downed Pittsburgh, 4 to 1, on homers by Jim Bolger, Ernie Banks and Walt Moryn before the second game was called after seven by curfew, with the score tied 4-4.

The New York Yankees managed to quell Kansas City, 8 to 6 in ten innings but the Chicago White Sox witnessed their American League lead to 3-1/2 by taking two from Washington, 4 to 2 and 8 to 6.

Detroit also required ten innings to defeat Boston, 2 to 1, and Cleveland took two from Baltimore, 4 to 3 and 5 to 1.

Ken Boyer's seventh-inning homer off Clem Labine settled the opener at Ebbets Field and the finale, interrupted 40 minutes by a downpour in the second inning, was decided in the sixth when the Cardinals raked Johnny Podres for six hits and four runs.

Von McDaniel Wins The Cards were trailing 6-2 in the opener when they rallied for four runs in the sixth inning, three of them on Stan's homer. The Dodgers, who had amassed most of their ten hits off Murry Dickson, including homers by Roy Campanella and Don Drysdale, were stillled from the sixth by a rangy 18-year-old Oklahoma right-hander who is just three weeks out of high school.

Von McDaniel, who joined his 21-year-old brother Lindy as a $50,000 Cardinal bonus baby, came on to fan five over the last four innings while permitting only one hit. In his debut in organized baseball last Thursday, he one-hit Philadelphia in four innings and struck out four.

National Open Winner Still On 'Cloud 9'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—America's new National Open golf king, 32-year-old Dick Mayer, was still in an "I can't believe it" dither today.

The St. Petersburg, Fla., pro has the features of a movie idol and the courteous manner of an old Southern gentleman. He learned the rudiments of golf as a kid by batting a ball around a baseball diamond with a six-iron from his dad's set. He left a Wall Street brokerage job in 1949 to turn professional.

Yesterday he defeated two-time champion Cary Middlecoff by seven strokes—a record for such extra holes in the playoff over Inverness Club's hot and humid acres.

Mayer termed it the "allergy" because he and "Cary" have been taking shots all week for various ailments. Middlecoff, who had two double bogies and finished 9 over par, after shooting a pair of 68s for a record in the final rounds, said he was "mentally exhausted."

"I played like a 'chopper' all day," he said. "I guess I left all my golf right on the 18th green yesterday when I sank that birdie to tie."

The new king of the linksman, hours after posting his 72 against Middlecoff's 79 over the par-70 course in 98-degree temperature, said, "I'm numb, and I'll be that way for days."

Until yesterday, Mayer hadn't won a tournament this year. Reminded that he had just picked up a $7,200 check for his share of the $30,000 tournament gold, he remarked: "Hush, Uncle Sam will hear and be around to see me."

Hemmis, Mitzell Score In Climb Cumberland's Joe Hemmis and Howard Mitzell, of York, Pa., divided honors in yesterday's motorcycle hill climb on the Kline Farm near the Cumberland Municipal Airport before an estimated 600 on-lookers.

Hemmis won the first 74-cubic-inch test in 7.23 seconds with Sam Kakabar, Lloydell, P. second and Mitzell third. Mitzell, oldest slant rider in the country, turned in the fastest time by taking the second professional event in 6.88. Duane Neiland was second and Hemmis third.

Charles Jacobs of Easton, Pa., topped one of the amateur climbs in 8.55 while Gordon Mitzell took the other in 8.65 seconds. Clarence Harper and Joe Grimm, both of Cumberland, entered the amateur events with "Buddy" Cosgrove and Hemmis being the local pros.

Ollie Beckman Wins Stock Car Feature

Ollie Beckman of Oakland took the feature 25-lap race in the stock car races yesterday at the Potomac Valley Speedway, Fort Ashby. An estimated 600 witnessed the six-event program.

Ivan Saville, Romney, provided the biggest thrill when his car climbed the four-foot wall in front of the grandstand and then rolled over. Saville was not injured.

Ralph Voiles, LaVale, lost control and went into the infield which was covered with about three feet of water. Voiles got a shower but was not hurt. Buddy Stickley's car was the first to be damaged when he collided with another in the second heat. In the third heat, Bill Fansler went out of control at the No. 1 turn due to the slick track which had been oiled to keep down the dust. Bobby Westfall and Ken Moore collided on the third turn and the race was run under caution for several laps until the track was cleared.

The second heat's start was delayed three times because of cars getting tangled before making the first lap. A total of 26 cars entered the program with drivers from Bedford, Romney, Oakland, Keyser, Burlington and Cumberland.

The next racing will be this Sunday with the first event scheduled to start at 2 p. m. (EDT). The cafeteria will also be open next Sunday. Summary:

FIRST RACE — 1. Carl Whitacre, 2. Ken Jeffries, 3. Lonaconing, 4. Leo Richard, 5. Cumberland, 6. Park, 7. Keyser, 8. Oakland, 9. Ivan Saville, 10. Romney, 11. Ollie Beckman, 12. LaVale, 13. Bill Fansler, 14. Bobby Westfall, 15. Ken Moore, 16. Charles Miller, 17. Richard Stargis, 18. Burling, 19. "Cowboy" Hawkins, 20. Burling, 21. Ray Riffe, 22. Hawkins (tie), 23. Miller, 24. Also assigned to Grand Island was John Moore of Newport, P. I., a catcher. He is 17, weighs 183 and stands 6-1.

Peter James, 18, his Rogers High School classmate at Newport, goes to Grand Island as an outfielder and first baseman. James is 6 feet and 194.

Pacing Rifle Teams Score Decisive Wins

Western Maryland Rifle League Team Standings

Fort Hill and runnerup LaVale won lopsided victories over Mountain Top and Hercules yesterday evening in the Western Maryland League's fifth small-bore rifle match fired at the Morningside Drive and Oakland ranges.

Fort Hill drubbed a short-handed Mountain Top crew, 1584-104x to 1187-73x, in a home range battle. Frank Simpson's 399-31x paced the victors on the local course, while Alex Harvey posted 390-29x to head the losers at Oakland.

LaVale scored a third consecutive win by taking a three-man Hercules effort, 1583-78x to 1175-52x, at Morningside Drive. Jack standees, would be best. Memorial Stadium has a seating capacity of 47,778 and the Orioles are preparing to sell standing room tickets.

The Orioles' best mark since returning to the American League in 1954 was the crowd of 47,778 which attended a New York Yankee doubleheader on May 16, 1954. About 21,000 of the tickets have been purchased for kids at the bargain rate of four admissions for $5. A pre-game parade of about 10,000 youngsters will be led by comedian Joe E. Brown.

Pyburn Shipped To San Antonio BALTIMORE (AP)—Jim Pyburn, $18,000 bonus player, was sent today by the Baltimore Orioles to their farm team at San Antonio. His required two-year stay on the Oriole roster expired yesterday.

Pyburn quit Auburn, where he was a star football end, in his junior year to sign a baseball contract. The Orioles tried him at third base and decided he had a better chance to become an outfielder. He also did some catching.

The Orioles consider Pyburn a good fielder but in need of improvement in the plate. He hit .225 in 40 games this season.

At San Antonio, Pyburn will join another Oriole bonus recipient, third baseman Wayne Causey who was sent out earlier this month.

Eagles, Elks Clash For Frostburg Lead With four of the five teams in the circuit tied for first place, Eagles and Elks have a chance of taking over the lead in the Frostburg Little League when they meet today at the Little League Field at 6 o'clock.

Barrelville Ends Win Streak Of Mt. Savage's Lewis, 7-2

Barrelville brought an end to the two-year undefeated pitching string of Tommy Lewis yesterday in the Pen-Mar Baseball League as the Old Exports whipped Mt. Savage, 7-2, at Savage.

Lewis had put together a nine-game streak over the past two seasons, winning four last summer and taking five more this year before running afoul of Barrelville yesterday. Bill Dickel scattered eight hits in notching his first triumph for Barrelville.

By winning the Old Exports moved into a tie with Mt. Savage for second place, both clubs having won seven of 11 starts.

Grantsville took the measure of Zihlman, 9-2, while the Centerville-Hyndon and Wellsburg-at-Flinstone tilts were washed out. Flinstone, winless in 11 attempts, had a 1-0 lead in the first when the game was halted.

Mt. Savage played loosely afled was charged with eight miscues and six of Barrelville's runs were unearned. Johnny Horwath collected two hits and Jack Brant rapped a triple for the Old Exports. Vince King collected two safeties and Arch Lennox belted a two-run homer in the fifth inning for Mt. Savage.

Lewis gave up seven hits and struck out seven.

The fielding highlight was a leaping catch by Ron Stuckley. Barrelville left fielder, who snared a line drive from the bat of Curtis Johnson in the fourth inning.

Keister Socks Five Hits

Player-manager John Keister who was hospitalized Saturday after being injured in an automobile accident while returning from a league game at Centerville, returned to action yesterday despite his bruises and was the "big gun" in Grantsville's triumph over Zihlman.

In addition to catching the entire game, Keister collected five hits in five trips to the plate—three singles, a triple and double—and batted in two runs.

Lynn Kitzmiller, Grantsville hurler, pitched shutout ball after the second inning, fanned four and walked one and notched his second win against a single setback. Wayne Fleegle, Zihlman twirler, yielded 13 hits, gave up one pass and whiffed four.

Joe Wengard of the Sluggers smashed a home run any Tony Wengard slammed a triple and two singles in four official trips. Barney Spearman, "Chuck" E. Rich and Tommy Dunn obtained two hits each for the losers.

Yesterday marked the second straight Sunday that rain had marred the Penn-Mar League program. A week ago three games were washed out.

Joe DiMaggio Sees Dodgers As Coast Hits

By JOHN J. CASSELY
ROME—(NS)—Joe DiMaggio said today baseball can't afford to keep heavily populated Los Angeles and San Francisco out of the major leagues.

But the former "Yankee Clipper," who grew up in San Francisco himself and owns a restaurant there, added that if one team moves to the West Coast, it's "almost necessary" for a second one to tag along.

DiMaggio, speaking as a "fan" explained that with only one club in California, the time and expense of flying Eastern teams "cross-country several times a year would practically make the transfer switch worthless.

Vacationing in Italy
The former New York Yankee centerfielder, who is vacationing—and wowing "em—in Italy, declined to say when he thought the major leagues would branch out to the Pacific Coast.

But the Hall-of-Famer said most ballplayers in the game today agree it will "eventually happen."

"I'd like to see big league baseball move to California," DiMaggio reflected, "but if the Dodgers leave Brooklyn to go west, it will be the end of an era for baseball."

"I wouldn't like to see the Dodgers leave Brooklyn, but then, that's part of the game—like a player being traded. And the Californians want big league baseball out there."

DiMaggio emphasized: "If the Dodgers do move to California, I can predict one thing. They'll draw the crowds. In fact, they'll draw very well."

"I'm not saying it'll be another Milwaukee—jamming the park every few days—but California has been waiting for the right opportunity."

Drags Photographers
The former Yankee slugger said, however, that New York can support three teams and he doesn't feel that Dodger president Walter O'Malley has yet definitely made up his mind about moving West. The National League has approved a switch by the Dodgers to Los Angeles and the New York Giants to Frisco.

DiMaggio, now grayning but still at about his playing weight, strolled through Rome and reflected on his baseball career: "A fellow's got to be realistic about it and I retired because time was up with me. I still think about the game sometimes but I don't miss it particularly because there are so many other things to do."

Joe sat at a sidewalk cafe drinking coffee and the name spread like magic among the Italians: "There's DiMaggio."

Waiters and cooks peeked from nearby windows and soon he was surrounded by photographers. He's still known as America's "Primo" (top) baseball player and, because he's also Italian, admiration for Joe knows few bounds.

DiMaggio plans to travel through Italy for several weeks and continue on to various other European cities for a month's vacation. He said he has no particular itinerary and simply wants to see Europe as it comes.

Asked about his plans for the future and whether they concern baseball, Joe replied: "I said when I quit that I'd never want to manage and that still sticks. But then, I'd never knock opportunity. I just plan to sit back and listen for awhile. Remember, Joe DiMaggio's only a fan now."

LOW COST PROTECTION

One serious illness or accident can mean thousands of dollars in medical bills. That's more than most people can afford. However, you CAN afford protection against such expenses. For a remarkably low cost, Medical Expense Insurance will give each member of your family up to $5,000 insurance against medical costs, for every separate accident or sickness. Young families get an especially good bargain, because rates are based on age. However, rates are low for every age bracket, and we can prove it. Phone or visit our office for the facts on this new, broader type of policy.

One cure for rising prices

is to save an extra nickel out of every dollar

You CAN do something about today's rising prices! And it's this. Save an extra nickel out of every dollar:

One of the main causes of rising prices is over-spending. If each of us will save only an extra nickel out of every dollar we earn, we will put a strong brake on inflation.

For this will produce billions of dollars in savings—money which is urgently needed to finance more factories, homes and schools.

And, of course, you get a personal bonus from your extra savings—the feeling of independence and security that a growing nest egg brings . . . the feeling that your house is in order.

As a second step to fight inflation, all of us should support every reasonable move to reduce government spending—federal, state and local.

Sure, all this means a sacrifice. But isn't it worth it, if this means continuing our prosperity—and keeping it sound?

106 million policyholders have made life insurance America's most widely used form of thrift. In the interest of these policyholders—in the interest of all of us—the life insurance companies feel they have a duty to help preserve the purchasing power of the dollar.
